ABOUT

THE RACIAL EQUITY INITIATIVE INC.

Our mission at TREI is to promote the use of psychological science to reduce racial inequities. We are a non-profit, non-partisan, organization that informs interested parties on the psychological processes that underlie racism and advocates for evidence-based solutions that can bring about substantive change.

We adhere to values of equality, antiracism, and atonement. Our work is grounded in oppression theory, is data-driven, and focuses on evidence-based solutions. Our organization and those in it embody values of accountability, diversity, inclusivity, integrity, and transparency.

Genes responsible for what people perceive as "racial" differences are an insignificant part of the human genome. Therefore, perceived group differences in intellectual performance or other behavioral traits cannot be attributed to race.
